The Future of Science Fiction Fantasy

How would you feel if you could go anywhere in the universe?

Would you feel amazed, in disbelief, excited? If you do not feel anything, then please discontinue reading for this is not for you.

Your Starship awaits you

As your excitement increases, you find yourself walking out onto a large spaceport. There before you is a sleek looking shuttlecraft. It is there to take you outside the Earth's atmosphere to another larger ship. The shuttle moves out into space and approaches a huge Intergalactic Craft floating in a non-gravity environment. You settle down on the flight deck and initiate departure. The craft leaps forward into the black depths of space and without any feelings of inertia accelerates to the speed of light. Even this is not fast enough to visit many other solar systems and planets within a lifetime.

Why not try some time travel?

Can you imagine for a brief moment that you are Doctor Who. You can now travel back to the beginning of Earth existence or forward to its inevitable demise by the explosion of a large red sun. The visit to other historical ages in time leaves you spellbound and a million year trip back to a former high technological earth colony is overpowering and has you believing that you are in the future. The realisation that the moon is nearer to the planet and larger in the sky means it is at a younger age. The Dr is limited and can only journey in the known universe and in time.

Your freedom of travel is not quite there yet.

Your old beliefs start to hold you back. The word God is archaic created from the minds of men and means a supernatural being to worship or adore. The knowledge makes you aware that God can be evil or good. Science is suddenly reaching new boundaries. More equations, formulae, and binary numbers show that creation is of a mathematical foundation, and the human body contains this and other chemical formulae and electrical power impulses. You receive enlightened knowledge that also in the human brain are quantum formulae that are unseen by physical scans. Finally, the age of divine science is discovered allowing the ultimate freedom of travel.

You can now go anywhere in the Galaxy and beyond in a space craft

Changes are made to your intergalactic craft using divine science. An inter-dimensional engine is constructed that opens a portal into a travel dimension allowing passage from one side of the galaxy to the other with only standard time loss in the twenty-day duration. The advances in divine science are only available to you and a few others of the Galaxy Police Federation.

The final barrier is the projection of the body to all other dimensions.

The application of divine science projects your body to everywhere in the known and unknown regions of the universe. The ultimate travel to anywhere in seconds is in the mode of thought patterns and vibrations that know no boundaries. You can travel into internally through an atom and beyond. You can reach the perimeter of the known physical universe that is near infinity and impossible in physical form. By creating a sudden oval portal that contains all the other realities you travel to everywhere in mini-portals circling inside. Moving in thought overcomes distance arriving at a destination in an instant. You can now enter the realms of the astral in your celestial layered outer body. It mirrors the physical universe seemingly a huge portion of unboundedness. Here, all life exists on a different frequency or vibration in an ethereal solidity. Good and evil are not defined as such in the heavenly realms for one does not exist without the other. Wondrous landscapes with tall majestic buildings and strange chariots of the sky ridden by humanoid spirit creatures fill the higher astral. Desolation, despair and self thought incarceration are scattered throughout the lower regions of the astral in a battle to dominate the minds of the physical worlds. Creatures of the spirit who have turned demonic in their thoughts try to ravage all others.

The future of science fiction fantasy

The past experiences of the author have proved to him that science and divinity are closely linked but not with the theology practised on Earth. The brains of Homo sapiens (us) conditioned to contain both physical and quantum formulae. The origin of our species is unknown underpinned by many theories and ideas. In the short, fragmented history of the human race, the body took millions of years to develop, and then suddenly in earth timescales, accelerated. Approximately thirty centuries ago humankind leapt forward with the release of new knowledge. The information was filtered out through DNA and quantum ontology through the early years of development. The data was slowed down by the advent of a one deity system that on one hand discarded the old Gods and on the other with ordinary human fallibility suppressed all knowledge for centuries (The dark ages).

It is almost sure that this extended period of approximately fifteen centuries stifled and curtailed human development. New ideas did emerge in this timescale but quickly discarded and discredited under the threat of death if they clashed with the known dogma of theology. The sudden release three centuries ago of the industrial revolution flung humanity into the technological age and space travel. The next great age to arrive will be one of spirituality causing a cataclysmic development and enlightenment to human society. It will be severe and calamitous to all humans with closed minds trying to rid themselves of past beliefs. The future divulged as a quantum essence of the brain is abruptly revealed with the ability of non-physical travel to unbelievable destinations thought impossible to reach. The world will be in chaos for a period bringing desire and suffering to an end. The future also has a risk of a comet strike that rids the world of a significant portion of humanity leaving a few survivors to reconstruct civilisation over the next few thousand years.
